

ABA

(Applied Behaviour Analysis – Análisis Conductual Aplicado)

ABA therapy applies our understanding of how behavior works to real situations. The goal is to increase behaviors that are helpful and decrease behaviors that are harmful or affect learning, it involves many techniques for understanding and changing behavior. Therapists will try to identify or figure out what factors might be influencing the client's behaviors or what might be getting in the way of a child learning new skills, or what might be causing a child to act a certain way.

ABA Components

Five common components

- ✓ Task analysis – Análisis de tareas: break down complex activities into a series of small step.
- ✓ Chaining – Encadenamiento: used to teach your child the steps in a task analysis.
- ✓ Prompting – Incitación: therapists may use different prompts to help teach your child new skills.
- ✓ Prompt fading – Extinción: prompts must be removed gradually as the child moves toward independence.
- ✓ Shaping – Moldeamiento: reinforces attempts to complete a skill until the child can perform the action or skill independently.

IEP

(Individualized Education Plan – Plan Educativo Individualizado)

It is a written plan/program developed by the schools special education team with input from the parents and specifies the student's academic goals and the method to obtain these goals, in order to establish measurable annual goals for the child; and to state the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services that the public agency will provide to, or on behalf of, the child. When constructing an appropriate educational program for a child with a disability.

Schools

During these calls, school staff (teachers, nurses, principals, counselors, etc.) will request your help to inform parents and students about various issues (health, academic, mental health, to name a few). The calls may come from the infirmary, the office, front desk, etc.

IEP (Individualized Education Program) What to expect?

As we already stated, an IEP establishes the program for special education instruction, support and services that children with special needs require to progress and thrive in school. Once a child enters the program a plan is written out for them in which case the P in IEP stands for plan.

Heads up! IEP meetings are usually held in person, with the participation of teachers and parents. During these calls, you may expect to be put on speaker which may pose a challenge for you as the interpreter. Remember to properly use your tools and always inform the client if any audio issues were to arise.

Health/ Mental Health

As mentioned above, some of the calls from schools may deal with issues of health. It could be something as simple as a scraped knee or a stomachache, as complex as a seizure, or the management of existing health conditions. These calls may be just the nurse calling a parent to pick up their child, or an in-person meeting about health concerns or previous incidents. Calls pertaining to the student's mental health may include counsellors. As with IEP meetings, the interpreter must always be mindful of any audio issues.
