

Utilities and telecom

What are utilities?

Utilities are the basic services your home, apartment, or business needs to keep it comfortable and functioning properly. Common utilities include water, sewage, electric and gas. Sometimes, trash and recycling are also considered utilities.

What are telecom services?

Telecom services: They include a wide range of information-transmitting technologies and communications infrastructures, such as wired phones; mobile devices, such as cellphones; fiber optics; satellites; radio and television broadcastin and internet.

Budget billing:

Is a free program that allows clients to pay a set amount for utilities each month. The service makes energy costs more predictable for consumers, despite fluctuations in energy usage as seasons change.

With this program, your utility company will review and average energy usage at your home for the past 12 months. The average monthly cost and anticipated energy prices are then used to calculate your new monthly bill under the plan, and you'll pay a set amount each month.
